BEHAVIOR MANAGEMENT IS A TOP CONCERN OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

We are pleased to offer days one through four of Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS) with Dr. Flint Simonsen. The main ideas that define school-wide PBIS include:

- ◆ whole school approach to behavior;
- ◆ investment in preventing problem behavior;
- ◆ actively teaching and rewarding expected behaviors;
- ◆ consistent consequences for challenging behaviors;
- ◆ establishing environments that are predictable;
- ◆ use different practices for different levels (primary, secondary, tertiary) of behavior support;
- ◆ implementation of the systems needed to support evidence-based practices;
- ◆ commitment to ongoing self-evaluation and planning for implementation; and
- ◆ collection and use of data for decision-making.

TEAM MEMBERS

A building principal or assistant principal is a required team member! Other team members could include additional building administrators, teachers, counselors, paraeducators, bus drivers, coaches, building support and related services staff. There is an expectation that all team members will attend all four days of training.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Dr. Flint Simonsen is an Associate Professor in the School of Education at Whitworth University. He earned his BS at Eastern Washington University, his MS at Northeastern University, and his PhD at the University of Oregon. He has worked extensively with over 200 schools across the State of Washington in their efforts to implement School-wide Positive Behavior Support.
