This is the sixth year of this highly successful collaborative group. This year we will continue our work with the newly-adopted Common Core State Standards and their influence on language arts, science, and social studies instruction. Because of additional funding, we will be able to offer both K-4 and 5-12 focused training at each session. Send your team of three from your district, one representative each from elementary, middle school, and high school levels. If your District has previously participated, we welcome you back and promise another great year. If you have not previously participated, we would like you to join us.

Comments from past participants:

“Great chance to interact with colleagues from other districts.”

“Great information I can use right now and apply to my work in the classroom.”

“I’ve learned more and taken more back to my team than from any other class I’ve taken.”

“I am a better collaborator because of the Literacy Network. I have more resources and contacts.”

“A wealth of information to share and stats to advocate change in our current class structure/curriculum.”

“Information and strategies presented here were directly applicable to goals at my school.”
