OSPI to Release Data to Focus Attention on Dual Credit Programs

OLYMPIA — March 22, 2017 —The Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) is taking a closer look at key performance indicators that lead to student success. These data and analytics help school districts identify opportunities to improve equity between student groups and learn from each other.

On March 29, OSPI will release analytics that highlight dual credit program participation. Research shows that dual credit programs correlate with higher graduation rates, college enrollment and degree attainment.

You are invited to a webinar to learn more about the data and OSPI's efforts to prepare every student for career, college and life.
