

NWESD's Teaching & Learning Department

Fall Professional Development Opportunities

Get your year started off on the right foot with these professional development offerings for your staff! Check our website for registration information at www.nwesd.org.

Reading: Our very popular presenter, Sarah Collinge, will be offering two classes for us this fall. Both will be taught at Everett Community College. For teachers in grades 2-8.

Session ID 30433

Raising the Standards: The CIA Approach

Oct. 25-26

Session ID 30434

CIA Small Group Instruction

Nov 9

History: A terrific joint offering between the Library of Congress and our own Beth Niemi. This class will focus on exploring available resources from the Library of Congress to create a Common Core-aligned lesson for your own use. Appropriate for grades 5-12 educators.

Session ID 30453

Primary Sources and the CCSS: A Journey from Past to Present

Nov 5

Writing: Megan Sloan and Barry Hoonan co-teach this writing workshop at Stanwood District Office. This class sold out this past summer. Register early! Appropriate for grades K-8 educators.

Session ID 30454

Making Sense of the Writing CCSS

Nov 15-16

Hi-Cap: The teaching strategies covered in this workshop will support highly capable students in the general education classroom as well as in an enrichment model. Taught at NWESD by Linda Varner and Nancy Smith. For all grades K-12.

Session ID 30432

Nature & Needs of Highly Capable Learners

Nov 2

Science: Page Keeley will facilitate a day-long training on STEM in the Snohomish School District. She will share research-based assessment strategies which will help teachers build skill in using formative data to plan, inform, and adjust instruction.

Session ID 30446

Formative Assessment: Finding Out What Students Really Know about STEM Ideas

Dec 2

For more information contact Anita Garcia-Holzemer at (360) 299-4044 or agarcia@nwesd.org.

Northwest Educational
Service District 189

Together We Can