This is the eighth year of this highly successful collaborative group. This year we will continue to focus on translating the English-Language Arts CCSS into classroom practice and reflect upon lessons learned from administering the Smarter Balanced Assessment. Additional topics will include close reading, writing best practices, curriculum and technology integration, and much more! We will offer K-5 and 6-12 focused training at each session. Please send up to three participants from your district, one representative each from elementary, middle, and high school levels. If your district has previously participated, we welcome you back and promise a year of valuable learning and collaboration. If you have not previously participated, we encourage you to join us!

Comments from past participants:

“Great chance to interact with colleagues from other districts.”

“Great information I can use right now and apply to my work in the classroom.”

“I’ve learned more and taken more back to my team than from any other class I’ve taken.”

“I am a better collaborator because of the Literacy Network. I have more resources and contacts.”

“A wealth of information to share and stats to advocate change in our current class structure/curriculum.”

“Information and strategies presented here were directly applicable to goals at my school.”
