This is the tenth year bringing together a group of bright and motivated learners committed to increasing their understanding and teaching of literacy. The Literacy Learning Network focuses on supporting educators in implementing practical and effective practices that will positively impact the learning of our region's students.

During the four sessions, participants will apply theory to action and take back to their schools strategies for creating opportunities for all students to make meaning and participate fully in their English Language Arts classrooms.

Over the course of four sessions, participants will learn specific strategies for:

- Supporting students in developing academic language
- Embedding scaffolding in lessons to increase student access to learning
- Linking learning to the lives of their students
- Effectively teaching reading, writing, speaking and listening

In each session participants will have the opportunity to:

- Collaborate with other professionals
- Plan and reflect on the application of their learning
- Challenge biases that block students from accessing opportunities to learning
- Self-select topics of study matching the theme of the series and their students' needs

If your district has previously participated, we welcome you back. If you are joining us for the first time, we welcome you to a year of dynamic learning, reflection, and collaboration with other educators excited about growing their professional practice.
